Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Sunday 10 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Generally dry overnight, rain later on Monday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Mostly cloudy but generally dry with the odd clear spell. Breezy in the north with lighter winds further south. Less cold than previous nights, but a ground frost still possible in southern parts. Minimum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Monday:
After a dry start with some brighter spells, cloud will increase for the afternoon with outbreaks of rain later. Turning quite windy. Feeling milder. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Tuesday, cold and dry after morning rain clears south. Sunny spells developing and lighter winds. Wednesday, cloudy with rain, becoming breezy later. Thursday, breezy with early showers, drier later.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.